Summary

Opening Context (150 chars):

Emily Henry's Great Big Beautiful Life is a witty, warm contemporary romance about a burned-out novelist who inherits a crumbling coastal bookshop from her estranged grandmother—and the grumpy, gorgeous contractor helping her rebuild it.

Main Content (400 chars):

The plot follows June, a bestselling author suffering from writer's block and a messy public breakup, who returns to her childhood town of Bell Harbor. The bookshop, once her grandmother's pride, is a disaster—leaky roof, crooked shelves, and a cat living in the back. Enter Theo, the town's stoic handyman with a tragic past and a soft spot for old books. Their banter is electric, but both carry baggage: June fears failure, Theo fears connection. As they renovate the shop, they uncover hidden letters in the walls—love notes from June's grandmother's secret romance—which mirror and complicate their own growing feelings.
